

Raw frame: the pressure-attributable gap is present in base and larger after post-training, on the acting side

